PM Modi's global honours tally reaches 35 with Indonesia's top award

Jakarta, July 7 : The 'Bintang Adipurna of the Republic of Indonesia' has become the latest addition to Prime Minister Narendra Modi's growing list of international honours, taking the total number of global awards conferred upon him to 35. The Bintang Adipurna, also known as the "Medal of Honour", is the highest civilian honour awarded by Indonesia. It is presented to individuals who have rendered exceptional service towards the unity, continuity and prosperity of the Republic of Indonesia. With this recognition, Prime Minister Modi has now received 35 international honours from countries across Asia, Europe, Africa and the Americas since 2016, the highest number received by any Indian Prime Minister. Some of these decorations have centuries-old histories. Last month, Seychelles honoured Prime Minister Modi with the 'Guardian of the Blue Horizon', the island nation's highest distinction for leadership in environmental conservation and sustainable development. The Prime Minister dedicated that honour to all nations working together to address the global challenge of climate change and those committed to environmental protection for future generations. The Seychelles award also recognised PM Modi's sustained emphasis on sustainable development and his long-standing commitment to promoting environmentally responsible growth. Among the most notable international honours conferred upon the Prime Minister is Bhutan's 'Order of the Druk Gyalpo', the country's highest civilian decoration, presented by the King of Bhutan. PM Modi became the first foreign head of government to receive the prestigious honour. He was also awarded the 'Grand Commander of the Order of the Niger' by Nigeria, becoming only the second foreign dignitary after Queen Elizabeth II to receive the distinction. Similarly, Israel's 'Medal of the Knesset' was also presented to Prime Minister Modi during his visit earlier this year, making him the inaugural recipient of the honour. Egypt honoured him with the 'Order of the Nile', the country's highest state decoration, presented by President Abdel Fattah El-Sisi.

Andhra Pradesh’s Rayalaseema region hit hard by El Nino

Amaravati, July 7 : Andhra Pradesh's Rayalaseema region has been significantly affected by the El Nino effect, with moderate to severe rainfall deficit in 11 districts, officials said on Tuesday.

Andhra Pradesh Home and Disaster Management Minister Vangalapudi Anitha reviewed the impact of the Southwest Monsoon and El Nino in the state. The high-level review meeting was held at the Andhra Pradesh State Disaster Management Authority (APSDMA) headquarters in Tadepalli regarding the rainfall deficit and dry weather conditions in the state. The meeting noted that Rayalaseema districts are significantly affected by El Nino. Severe rainfall deficit was observed in Sri Sathya Sai, Anantapur, and Annamayya districts, while moderate rainfall deficit was noted in Kurnool, Nandyal, Chittoor, Kadapa, Prakasam, Markapuram, Nellore, and Tirupati districts. Anitha directed officials to create awareness among farmers regarding alternative crops in drought-prone mandals. The minister comprehensively reviewed issues such as the rainfall deficit and dry spells associated with the current Southwest Monsoon, their impact on the agricultural sector, drinking water availability, drought mitigation measures, and disaster management preparedness. Officials from various departments and agencies participated in this high-level meeting, including APSDMA MD Prakhara Jain, state police, fire services, army, navy, air force, the NDRF, the SDRF, Agriculture, Horticulture, Animal Husbandry, Rural Water Supply, Municipal Administration, Panchayat Raj, Water Resources, Electricity, Roads & Buildings (R&B), and Civil Supplies. The minister directed officials to implement effective measures to mitigate the impact of disasters, emphasising that the state government's goal is to ensure zero loss of life due to disasters. She said special control rooms must be established to operate round-the-clock at both state and district levels. She also asked the departments to prepare plans to evacuate residents from low-lying areas vulnerable to floods. Measures must be taken to ensure the availability of food, drinking water, and medical services at rehabilitation centres. There should be no disruption to essential services such as drinking water and electricity supply, she said and asked the police, fire, NDRF, and APSDRF teams to remain ready for emergency response.

Jagan should apologize: MLA Kotam Reddy

Nellore, July 7 : Nellore Rural MLA Kotamreddy Sridhar Reddy strongly objected to former Chief Minister and YSRCP president Jagan Mohan Reddy extending support to Prashna Ravan, alleging that he made remarks against Hindu deities, traditions, and customs. Addressing a press conference at his office on Tuesday, Kotamreddy said he was speaking not merely as an MLA but as an ordinary Indian citizen. He stated that he is proud to be an Indian and a Hindu, adding that Hinduism has taught him to respect people of all religions. He recalled that he had spoken out when objectionable remarks were made against Prophet Muhammad and had also stood in support of Christians. He questioned why Jagan Mohan Reddy was now supporting a person who, according to him, had made offensive remarks against Hindu deities. "Whether someone believes in God or not is a personal choice, but who gave Prashna Ravan the right to insult Hindu gods?" he asked. Kotamreddy further questioned Jagan, saying, "On one hand you say 'Hey Ram,' and on the other you support Ravan. What has happened to you, Jagan?" He said he was asking these questions out of concern and urged Jagan to listen to the statements allegedly made by Prashna Ravan against Lord Rama, the Ramayana, and the Mahabharata. The MLA claimed that several cases had already been registered against Prashna Ravan and alleged that he had spoken in a manner supporting extremists. He argued that if such actions did not warrant serious legal action, including charges of sedition, then what would. Kotamreddy alleged that Prashna Ravan's statements could create hatred between communities and criticized Jagan Mohan Reddy for supporting such an individual.

India plans to position
Ayurveda as a pillar of global healthcare by 2047

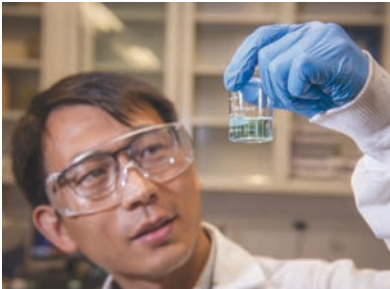

NITI Aayog, in collaboration with PwC, has released a report titled Strategic Roadmap for Making Ayurveda Global that sets out a phased plan to transform Ayurveda from a largely India-centric traditional system into a globally recognised healthcare framework by 2047. The report observes that Ayurveda today enjoys formal recognition in nearly 30 countries, with varying degrees of licensing and integration into national health policies. India has a robust ecosystem with over 355,000 trained practitioners, with 95 per cent of them remaining within the country, leaving a limited international workforce. Exports of Ayurvedic products have grown steadily, doubling from USD 1.09 billion in 2014 to USD 2.16 billion in 2023 and reaching around 150 countries. However, most exports are categorised as dietary supplements rather than medicines, reflecting regulatory barriers abroad. International research collaborations are expanding, the report notes, with nearly 70 countries now engaged in Ayurveda-related studies. The establishment of the WHO Global Traditional Medicine Centre in Jamnagar has further boosted credibility. Educational outreach is also growing, with scholarships offered to international students and Ayush academic chairs established in foreign universities. Still, standardised global curricula remain a work in progress. Acceptability, too, is uneven. While Ayurveda is increasingly visible in wellness tourism and integrative medicine centres, mainstream healthcare systems remain cautious. Insurance coverage for Ayurvedic services is rare outside India, and regulatory compliance remains a hurdle. Quality assurance gaps, inconsistent GMP adoption, and concerns over contaminants have slowed wider adoption. The report draws a sharp comparison with Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM), which has achieved far greater global penetration. TCM's success is attributed to mission-scale state support, deep R&D funding, and proactive diplomacy. China has reportedly established over 30 overseas TCM centres, integrated TCM into free trade agreements, and secured recognition through ISO standards. Ayurveda, by contrast, suffers from fragmented regulation, limited practitioner licensure abroad, and insufficient harmonised pharmacopeial standards. Since the creation of the Ministry of Ayush in 2014, India has launched multiple initiatives to enhance Ayurveda's global visibility. These include signing over 75 MoUs with foreign governments and institutions; establishing Ayush Information Cells in 39 countries; launching the Ayush Visa in 2022 to facilitate medical value travel; creating the Ayush Export Promotion Council (AyushExcil); collaborating with the WHO to establish the Global Traditional Medicine Centre in Jamnagar; integrating Ayurveda into the WHO's ICD-11 classification system; and promoting digital platforms such as the Ayush Grid and the m-Yoga app. Challenges still remain. Regulatory harmonisation across countries is limited, evidence-based clinical research is inadequate, and integration into insurance frameworks is minimal. The report emphasises the need for a unified global branding strategy. Currently, fragmented messaging creates confusion about Ayurveda's identity. The roadmap suggests culturally adaptable communication strategies, multilingual consumer education campaigns, myth-busting initiatives to address misconceptions, and transparent sourcing and manufacturing practices to build trust. Meanwhile, Medical Value Travel (MVT) has been identified as a major growth area. The report suggests creating international Ayurveda hubs, domestic wellness zones, and bundled Ayush Visa packages that include diagnostics, treatment, and tele-follow-ups. Additionally, it calls for India's diplomatic capital to be leveraged. Embassies should act as proactive Ayurveda information nodes, while global visibility can be enhanced through premium Ayurveda Experience Centres at landmarks such as the WHO headquarters in Geneva, the UN Headquarters in New York, and Trafalgar Square in London. The roadmap is structured across three phases. In the short term (2025-2029), it calls for fast-tracking WHO-GMP certification for major manufacturers, launching flagship international Ayurveda centres in priority markets.

Researchers develop new technology to help reduce dependency on imported, expensive superalloys

Kolkata, July 7 : Researchers at Hyderabad's International Advanced Research Centre for Powder Metallurgy and New Materials (ARCI), an autonomous institute of the Department of Science and Technology (DST), have come up with a crack-free bi-metallic structure developed by researchers using a technique called laser-based powder bed fusion additive that can help reduce the overall use of expensive superalloys and import dependency. Stainless steels and nickel-based super alloys are widely used in aerospace, nuclear, as well as thermal power plants. Certain regions of a gas turbine may experience temperatures as high as 2000°C, while adjacent sections are exposed to lower temperatures during service conditions. Therefore, combining stainless steel (good toughness and corrosion resistance) with nickel-based superalloys (excellent high-temperature strength and creep resistance) in a single component is technologically attractive. However, conventional welding of Stainless steel (SS316L) and the Inconel superalloy (IN718) is challenging due to differences in chemical composition, melting temperatures, and thermal expansion coefficients. These differences often lead to solidification cracking, porosity, segregation of Nb/Mo-rich phases, and formation of brittle intermetallics.

From pen-pals to bullet trains: PM Modi's bond with Japan that shaped a strategic alliance

New Delhi, July 7 : When Japanese Prime Minister Sanae Takaichi arrived in India, the visit was hailed as another milestone in the Indo-Japanese partnership. Yet, for Prime Minister Narendra Modi, this relationship is not merely a matter of statecraft -- it is a personal journey that began long before he assumed office in 2014. His fascination with Japan, its culture, and its technological brilliance stretches back decades, weaving a story of friendship, curiosity, and vision. Prime Minister Modi's earliest brush with Japan dates to the early 1980s, when as a young Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh

(RSS) pracharak he befriended a Japanese visitor from Nagoya during a trip to Nepal. As shared on Modi Story's X account, the bond blossomed into a pen-pal friendship, with letters and gifts exchanged across borders -- Japanese shoes and T-shirts from one side, and a copy of the Bhagavad Gita from the other. Even then, Prime Minister Modi viewed such ties as more than personal gestures; they were cultural bridges. By 2007, as Chief Minister of Gujarat, PM Modi's engagement with Japan had matured into a mission of learning. Leading a 40-member delegation, the Prime Minister toured Tokyo, Osaka, Hiroshima, and Kobe, meeting corporate giants like Mitsubishi, Suzuki, Toshiba, and Nippon Steel. Agreements with Japan External Trade Organisation (JETRO) marked the beginning of Gujarat's deep economic ties with Japan. His meeting with the former Japan Prime Minister late Shinzo Abe during this visit sowed the seeds of a friendship that would later blossom into one of the closest relationships between two world leaders. Prime Minister Modi's regular inquiries about Abe's health during his illness reflected the personal warmth behind the diplomacy.

Gujarat: Two absconding
held after three years

Ahmedabad, July 7 : Two undertrial prisoners who failed to return to jail after being granted interim bail in 2023 and allegedly spent nearly three years evading arrest by disguising themselves and begging outside temples across Gujarat have been apprehended by the Ahmedabad Crime Branch under its "Operation Karavas" campaign, officials said on Tuesday. The accused, identified as Ashok alias Maharaj Patel, 48, and his wife Renuka Patel, 51, were arrested from beneath the CTM Bridge opposite Hanuman Nagar in the Ramol area of the city. Police said the couple had been living on the footpath while concealing their identities by changing their appearance and begging outside temples in different parts of the state.

MP: Datia Assembly
bypoll on July 30, counting on August 3

Bhopal, July 7 : The Election Commission of India (ECI) on Tuesday announced the schedule for the Datia Assembly by-election, setting in motion the process to fill the vacant seat. According to the notification, the bypoll will formally be notified on July 6, with candidates permitted to file their nominations until July 13. Scrutiny of nomination papers will be conducted on July 14, while July 16 has been fixed as the last date for withdrawal of nominations. Polling will take place on July 30, and the counting of votes will be held on August 3. The entire election process will conclude by August 4. With the announcement, the Model Code of Conduct has come into immediate effect in the constituency. Voting will be conducted using Electronic Voting Machines (EVMs) and Voter Verifiable Paper Audit Trail (VVPAT) units across all polling centres. The by-election was necessitated after Congress MLA Rajendra Bharti lost his membership of the Madhya Pradesh Assembly following his conviction in a decades-old fraud case.

Bamboo to play key role in Assam's bio-economy

Guwahati, July 7 : Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma on Tuesday said that bamboo will play a significant role in strengthening the state's bio-economy by generating rural livelihoods and creating sustainable industrial opportunities. In a social media post, Sarma highlighted the government's efforts to unlock the economic potential of bamboo, describing it as "green gold" capable of transforming the rural economy. "Bamboo will play a big role in powering Assam's bio economy," the Chief Minister said. "We are working towards improving the livelihoods of our bamboo farmers in unlocking the value of this 'green gold' -- creating rural livelihoods and driving sustainable industry. This value chain will turn our strength into global economic opportunity," he added. The Chief Minister's remarks came alongside a promotional video showcasing bamboo as "A Resource for the Future", underscoring its importance in sustainable development and value-added manufacturing. Assam possesses vast bamboo resources, making it one of the leading bamboo-producing states in the country.

The government has been promoting bamboo cultivation, processing and entrepreneurship to generate employment and increase farmers' incomes. The Chief Minister said that strengthening the bamboo value chain will encourage the establishment of bamboo-based industries producing furniture, handicrafts, construction materials, engineered bamboo products and other eco-friendly alternatives. The initiative also aligns with the state's focus on promoting green industries, reducing dependence on conventional raw materials and supporting environmentally sustainable economic growth.

Trump says US must win AI race

Washington, July 7 : US President Donald Trump said the United States must remain ahead of China in the race to dominate artificial intelligence, describing AI as a technology with greater long-term significance than the internet. Speaking in an interview with CNBC, Trump said maintaining American leadership in AI was a strategic priority and warned against allowing China to overtake the United States. "AI is bigger than the internet," Trump said. "I've never seen anything. The internet was a big deal. I think this is much bigger than the internet." Trump said the country leading AI development would gain a decisive global advantage. "I really think whoever's number one is going to really win the race. And right now, we're substantially number one." The President also said the United States was leading China in artificial intelligence development. "We're leading substantially in AI over China and everybody else." He said the country's expanding AI industry would require a dramatic increase in electricity generation and claimed his administration had found a solution by allowing companies to build their own power generation facilities. "We need double the energy, double the electricity that we have right now to do that, just that one AI industry." "I let the plants, as they build these billions and billions of dollars of plants, I let them build their own electric generating plants." Trump argued the policy had helped preserve America's technological advan-

tag. "If I didn't come up with that concept, we wouldn't have... we would be in last place." The President said safeguards were necessary but warned against excessive regulation of AI. "You need some guard rails, but you want to do as little as possible." He said his administration would act quickly when it identified potential security risks. "When we think there's a bad player out there, there's a little danger, we stop the player quickly and effectively."

Authorities report first suspected H5N1 bird flu case on Australia's east coast

Sydney, July 7 : Authorities in the Australian state of New South Wales (NSW) said on Tuesday that they have detected the first suspected case of the deadly H5N1 avian influenza on the country's east coast. Tara Moriarty, NSW's minister for agriculture, told reporters that preliminary testing of samples taken from a migratory giant petrel that was found sick near the small coastal town of Hawks Nest, 165 km northeast of Sydney, returned a positive result for the highly pathogenic strain. She said that the samples have been sent to the national science agency for confirmatory testing. If confirmed, it would be the sixth case of the H5N1 strain on the Australian mainland and the first on the east coast. All five previous cases were detected in migratory birds in June, with four in Western Australia (WA) and one in South Australia (SA). Moriarty said on Friday that the state government has notified the poultry industry about the suspected case. "We haven't had any reports of the poultry industry being impacted," she said. "So there's no need to panic, keep buying eggs, keep buying chicken." Prior to the first case being detected in WA, the Australian mainland was the only continent free from the strain that has caused the deaths of millions of birds and other wildlife globally since 2020, Xinhua news agency reported. NSW's Chief Veterinary Officer, Jo Coombe, said that Australian authorities were "very aware" of the looming threat of the H5N1 strain and have spent several years preparing for a local outbreak.

US, Japan step up cyber cooperation

Washington, July 7 : The United States and Japan agreed to deepen cooperation on cyber security following two days of talks in Washington, committing to expand intelligence sharing, strengthen protection of critical infrastructure, combat cybercrime across the Indo-Pacific and accelerate adoption of post-quantum cryptography. The commitments were announced in a joint statement issued after the 11th US-Japan Cyber Dialogue, held in Washington on June 30 and July 1.

The United States hosted the meeting, which was co-chaired by the Department of State's Bureau of Emerging Threats and the Bureau of East Asian and Pacific Affairs. Japan's Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the National Cybersecurity Office co-chaired the talks for Tokyo. The US delegation included officials from the White House National Security Council staff, the Office of the National Cyber Director, the Office of the Director of National Intelligence, the Department of War, the Department of Justice, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Department of Homeland Security, the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency, the National Institute of Standards and Technology and the Federal Communications Commission. Japan's delegation included representatives from the Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications, the Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry, the Ministry of Defence, the National Police Agency and the Public Security Intelligence Agency. In the joint statement, the two countries said they "reaffirmed their shared commitment to addressing threats in cyberspace directly." They also said both sides deepened bilateral security cooperation in cyberspace and the strength of the US-Japan alliance by agreeing to leverage emerging technologies, strengthen information-sharing and improve interoperability. Among the commitments, the two governments agreed to "leverage new technologies such as artificial intelligence (AI) and advance secure and sovereign cloud infrastructure built on trusted technology to deepen information-sharing and interoperability." They also pledged to "exchange cyber threat information and assessments of sophisticated state and non-state cyber actors, including threats to critical infrastructure and the growing role of AI, to counter malicious cyber activities." The two sides agreed to align international cyber policies and share their respective national cyber strategies. The statement also said the United States and Japan would "combat cybercrime and scam centers in the Indo-Pacific region through law enforcement action, international diplomacy, and coordinated engagement with the private sector as appropriate." The two countries further committed to "coordinate technical assistance for cyber resilience and defense in third countries across the Indo-Pacific region." They also agreed to "collaborate to accelerate Post Quantum Cryptography (PQC) adoption domestically." The statement said the United States and Japan committed to continued close coordination on cyber policy, operations, technical assistance and engagement with the private sector.

Lebanon pushes ahead with local elections despite border conflict, displacement

Beirut, July 7 : Lebanon is moving forward with municipal elections in its conflict-ravaged south on Tuesday, pressing ahead despite ongoing Israeli airstrikes, widespread displacement, and severe logistical challenges. The vote is held in the governorates of South Lebanon and Nabatieh, even as large parts of the border region remain under sporadic fire. Tens of thousands have been displaced since the cross-border conflict between Israel and Hezbollah began in October 2023, and basic services have collapsed in many towns. Interior Minister Ahmad Al-Hajjar this week reiterated the government's commitment to asserting sovereignty across all Lebanese territory.

Asim Munir's rise as Pakistan's Chief of Defence Forces symbolises deep institutional decay: Sindhi leader Berlin, July 7 : Shafi Burfat, Chairman of the Jeay Sindh Muttahida Mahaz (JSMM), on Tuesday slammed Pakistan's "self-appointed" Field Marshal and Chief of Defence Forces Asim Munir, saying he symbolises not military excellence but the deep institutional decay of a state captured by its own security establishment. The Sindhi leader asserted that Munir's elevation to the highest ceremonial rank -- Chief of Defence Forces-- despite not having fought or won a single international or decisive domestic war, reflected unchecked militarised power rather than professional merit. "Titles earned through coercion rather than competence often reveal psychological insecurity. Munir's fixation with grand ranks and religious symbolism suggests not confidence.

South Korean FM vows to seek dialogue with North Korea, other countries for peace on Korean Peninsula

Seoul, July 7 : South Korea's Foreign Minister Cho Hyun said Tuesday he would work to establish peace on the Korean Peninsula by seeking dialogue with North Korea and other relevant nations, reiterating the government's efforts to reengage with Pyongyang. Cho made the remarks in a keynote speech at an event hosted by the South Korea-US Parliamentarians Union, saying it is time to "deeply reflect on what must be done" to ensure security and peace on the peninsula, Yonhap News Agency reported. "The two summit meetings between South Korea and the United States this year would provide a foundation for those efforts," he said, stressing the importance of "swiftly and properly" negotiating the agreements reached in the joint fact sheet. He added that South Korea should work to bolster deterrence while simultaneously seeking dialogue with North Korea and other relevant nations. Following two summits in August and October between South Korean President Lee Jae Myung and U.S. President Donald Trump, the two countries released a joint fact sheet outlining their agreements. Under the agreements, the US committed to supporting South Korea in its efforts toward civil uranium enrichment and spent fuel reprocessing for peaceful uses. It also includes US approval for and its commitment to advancing Seoul's drive for nuclear-powered submarines. Cho added that Seoul will hold talks with Washington on the submarines and uranium enrichment next year. On Friday, South Korean President Lee Jae Myung instructed officials to arrange a security-related ministers' meeting to better coordinate the government's North Korea policy.

Bengal Cabinet clears draft UCC Bill, CM Adhikari directs strict cost control measures

Kolkata, July 7 : The draft of the Uniform Civil Code, West Bengal, 2026, aiming to implement a uniform civil code in the state, was cleared at a meeting of the state cabinet on Tuesday, which was chaired by Chief Minister Suwendu Adhikari. "Now the draft Bill will be sent to a newly constituted committee headed by former Supreme Court judge Justice Ranjana Prakash Desai (retired), for examination. Following the recommendations of the high-powered committee that will be received within the next four weeks, the final Bill will be drafted and tabled on the floor of the Assembly in August this year," said a state cabinet insider. To recall, while addressing the Assembly earlier on June 29, the Chief Minister said that the state's tribals, indigenous people, Kurmis and other recognised ancient tribal communities will be kept outside the purview of the proposed law. In this regard, the Chief Minister clarified that the exception is being made following the model adopted by Uttarakhand and Gujarat. The main purpose of the Bill is to implement a single law across the state. , instead of having separate personal laws on the basis of religion. Once implemented, West Bengal will be the fourth Indian state to implement UCC after Gujarat, Uttarakhand and Assam. At the same time, at the meeting, the Chief Minister directed all departments to go for strict cost-control measures and stop all avoidable departmental expenditure. "The Chief Minister strictly instructed that non-eligible people should be immediately excluded from various social welfare projects and thus ensure cost curtailment and bring ease in running those projects," the cabinet insider said. Sources said that the Chief Minister also directed that all state government departments should adopt all possible measures to seal the avenues of revenue leakages, especially as regards tax collection from sectors like stone quarries and sand mining, the areas where the leakage was maximum during the previous Trinamool Congress regime because of rampant corruption. "The Cabinet also approved a proposal for perpetual transfer of government-vested land in different districts in favour of the Border Security Force (BSF) and Sashastra Seema Bal (SSB) for various purposes like construction of border outposts, border fencing and road construction, among others," said sources. The cabinet also cleared a proposal for the creation of nine additional fast-track courts in nine districts of the state and also approved the creation of 35 posts for these courts.

TN: Udhayanidhi Stalin slams Guv’s Madurai inspection

Chennai, July 7 : DMK leader Udhayanidhi Stalin on Tuesday strongly criticised Tamil Nadu Governor Rajendra Arlekar for inspecting during his visit to Madurai, alleging that the exercise was unconstitutional and infringing upon the powers of the elected state government.

In a statement, Udhayanidhi Stalin said the Governor had acted like an elected public representative despite holding a nominated constitutional office and serving as the Governor of Tamil Nadu only as an additional charge. He also targeted the ruling TVK government, accusing it of allowing the Governor to overstep constitutional limits.

Drawing parallels with the previous AIADMK regime, Udhayanidhi Stalin said the Governor's inspection marked a return to what he described as the "Koovathur-era" practice of Governors conducting field inspections. He alleged that the present government, which he described as being sustained through "horsetrading politics," had permitted a precedent that undermined Tamil Nadu's rights. He objected to the Governor's reported remarks that Raj Bhavan would intervene if the state government failed to restore the Vaigai river. Pointing out that the maintenance of Raj Bhavan itself is the responsibility of the Tamil Nadu government, Udhayanidhi Stalin said the Governor's comments reflected an unwarranted assertion of authority. He alleged that such statements were possible only because the ruling party had failed to safeguard the state government's constitutional powers. The DMK leader recalled that his party had earlier questioned the government in the Assembly over what it described as a compromise on the importance.

Mentioning the ‘Skilling for AI Readiness’ (SOAR) programme, which the Ministry of Skill Development and Entrepreneurship is currently developing in collaboration with Ministry of Education and NCVET, he added, “The future lies in AI, and India must lead by building indigenous models and preparing our youth for an AI-driven world”. “Through ‘Skilling for AI Readiness’, we plan to equip students with tools to innovate ethically using AI. The collective spirit of the Northeast, paired with national support, is a beacon of progress. We must harness this energy, break old mindsets, and build a future where every young mind from Arunachal to Assam shapes India’s global narrative,” Chaudhary added. The northeastern region is witnessing rapid growth and is on track to become one of the country’s major economic hubs. “From the tea gardens of Assam to digital creators in Shillong, the Northeast is not waiting for change — it is architecting it. And it is time the rest of India, and the world, invests in that spirit,” said the minister.

Chandigarh, July 7 : Sixteen out of the 27 people who died due to consumption of illicit liquor in Amritsar belong to the Dalit community, said Punjab BJP Scheduled Caste Morcha President S.R. Ladhar here on Tuesday. Taking cognisance of this month’s deaths of 27 people due to poisonous liquor made from methanol in the Majitha area, the morcha has demanded intervention of the National Scheduled Caste Commission for justice to the victims. Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann, ministers, MLAs, MPs and government officials who accompanied him to the spot should clarify why they hid this fact, asked former IAS officer Ladhar. He said the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) government has not registered a case under the Prevention of Atrocities Act of 1989 against the accused who are enjoying political patronage.

“This shows the indifferent attitude of the

Bhagwant Mann government. Why should we not believe that this indicates the anti-Dalit mentality of the Aam Aadmi Party government? The BJP will not allow such intentions of the government to succeed,” he said. He demanded a CBI probe into the incident of consumption of poisonous liquor in the past three years and said the government was trying to hide facts. Another leader, Paramjit Singh Kainth, who’s the Vice-President of the morcha, said the incidents of consumption of illicit liquor have increased. Pakistan sees sharp escalation in centre-province tensions as KP govt shuts offices

Islamabad, July 7 : A complete pen-down strike was observed by the Khyber-Pakhtunkhwa provincial government in Pakistan on Tuesday with Chief Minister Sohail Afridi leading the protest against the federal policies. This marked the first time in the country's history that a provincial chief executive had shut down administrative operations to protest federal policies, local media reported. The day-long strike, which resulted in halting of all non-emergency official work across the province, was called in response to "deliberate and persistent discriminatory treatment" by the federal government, a statement issued by the Chief Minister's Secretariat mentioned. "Specific grievances include an unfair share in the National Finance Commission (NFC) Award, unequal distribution of electricity and gas resources, and what KP officials call a pattern of fiscal and administrative marginalisation," leading Pakistani daily 'The Express Tribune' reported.

During the protest, the offices remained open, but no documents were signed, no files were moved, and only the emergency services functioned, the report detailed. "This is a peaceful but powerful message to the federation," the newspaper quoted a government spokesperson as saying. "Our rights are being systematically ignored," he added. It also mentioned the provincial government's growing frustration over the detention conditions of former Prime Minister Imran Khan and his wife, Bushra Bibi. The strike was announced earlier this week by Chief Minister Afridi, who urged all provincial departments to suspend routine paperwork and join what he called a "symbolic revolt of the pen". There were no reports of major disruptions to public services, and the strike drew mixed reactions, the newspaper reported.

PAI Version 2.0 to ensure data-based monitoring, planning at gram panchayat level

New Delhi, July 7 : The Panchayat Advancement Index (PAI) Version 2.0 is aimed at building capacities for data-based monitoring and planning at the gram panchayat level to support the achievement of holistic, inclusive, and sustainable development in rural areas through Panchayati Raj Institutions, the government said on Tuesday. The Ministry of Panchayati Raj is organising a two-day 'Writeshop' on the PAI Version 2.0 in the capital on May 26-27 which marks the national roll out of PAI 2.0 for FY 2023-24. The PAI has been developed as a robust, multidimensional tool to assess and monitor the progress of Gram Panchayats against nine themes aligned with the Localised Sustainable Development Goals (LSDGs). These themes cover areas such as poverty alleviation, health, education, water sufficiency, clean environment, infrastructure, governance, social justice and women's empowerment. While PAI 1.0 (FY 2022-23) served as a baseline assessment tool, PAI 2.0 incorporates major enhancements based on extensive field experience and stakeholder feedback. According to the ministry, PAI 2.0 introduces a sharper and more focused framework by rationalising the number of indicators from 516 to 147, ensuring higher data quality, ease of reporting, and actionable insights. The refined 'Local Indicator Framework' now emphasizes outcome-oriented, measurable indicators across nine LSDG themes, enabling Gram Panchayats to better track progress, prioritize interventions, and enhance transparency in local governance.

Govindan, elected as a CPI(M) rebel from the Thaliparambu constituency in Kannur raised it in the Assembly recently, prompting fresh calls for an official enquiry into the affairs of the company. The shareholders' association has alleged that a series of decisions taken by the previous management resulted in substantial financial losses to KIAL and adversely affected thousands of shareholders who had invested in the airport company expecting long-term returns. The memorandum reportedly points to irregularities in administration, deviations from established procedures, financial decisions that allegedly caused losses to the company and violations of statutory provisions governing corporate functioning.

'Pak Army gave guns to Kashmiris, don't call us terrorists': PoK leader amid massive protests in Rawalakot

New Delhi, July 7 : Pakistan-occupied Kashmir (PoK) on Tuesday witnessed 24th day of anti-government protests, which drew over 80,000 passionate protesters to the Eidgah grounds in Rawalakot.

What began as demands for basic rights has transformed into a powerful challenge against Islamabad's long-standing control, with local leaders delivering scathing accusations that strike at the heart of Pakistan's narrative on regional terrorism. On Thursday, Sardar Aman Khan, the prominent chief of the Joint Awami Action Committee (JAAC), delivered one of the most explosive speeches of the movement.

In a bold revelation that sent ripples through the crowd, Khan asserted that it was the Pakistan Army itself which supplied weapons and ammunition to Kashmiris across the Line of Control.

"It was the Pakistan Army that handed guns to Kashmiris. And today, they dare to call us terrorists," he declared, his words met with thunderous applause.

Khan further highlighted a Jaish-e-Mohammed rally held in Rawalakot in February last year, where armed participants openly paraded through the streets brandishing AK-47s and swords.

He pointedly reminded authorities that the Deputy Commissioner of Rawalakot had not only permitted the event but also provided security for it. "Deputy Commissioner Rawalakot, you used to organise rallies here with guns and swords. Do you remember? And now you call us terrorists," he said. "All these people are heirs of this land." The protest movement, which has united locals across PoK, revolves around 38 key demands.

Khan issued a stern warning that if these are not immediately accepted and implemented, the agitation will evolve beyond reform into a full-fledged call for Pakistan to completely withdraw from the region. Earlier, demonstrators in Rawalakot had openly rejected Islamabad's dominance, with several speakers suggesting the time had come for deeper engagement with India. In a particularly pointed remark, Khan emphasised that Pakistan-occupied Kashmir does not belong to Pakistan and that Islamabad relies on the region far more than its residents do.

US Democrats challenge green card policy shift

Washington, July 7 : Congressional Democrats have urged the Trump administration to reverse what they called a major shift in the US green card process, arguing that a new policy could force eligible applicants to seek permanent residence from abroad instead of adjusting their status while remaining in the United States. In a letter to US Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Director Joseph Edlow, Democratic lawmakers led by Senator Alex Padilla, Senator Dick Durbin, Representative Jamie Raskin and Representative Pramila

Jayapal objected to a May 21 USCIS policy memorandum that describes adjustment of status as an "extraordinary form of relief" and introduces what they say are new discretionary standards not authorised by Congress.

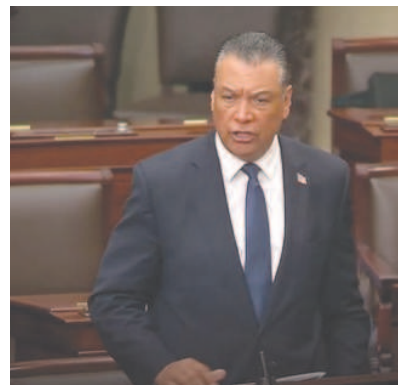

"We write to object to your new policy memorandum regarding adjustment of status. Adjustment of status is the statutory process by which immigrants may apply for lawful permanent residence, often called a 'green card,' from within the United States," the lawmakers wrote. They added: "Without any basis in the law and in a departure from decades of precedent, this guidance creates a policy preference for consular processing abroad over adjustment of status in the United States, requiring applicants to meet new, undefined discretionary criteria to be processed domestically. We urge you to reverse this new policy and restore adjudications of adjustment of status applications in a manner consistent with the law, longstanding practice, and congressional intent." The lawmakers disputed the memorandum's assertion that adjustment of status "is a matter of discretion and administrative grace not designed to supersede the regular consular processing of immigrant visas."

"This is simply incorrect. There is no statutory preference for consular processing, and legislative history shows that Congress has long maintained a strong preference in favour of allowing eligible non-citizens to adjust status in the United States," they wrote.

The letter noted that adjustment of status was established under the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952 and later expanded because many eligible applicants already lived in the United States. It argued that Congress intended eligible immigrants to complete the process without leaving the country except in limited circumstances specifically set out in law. The Democrats also criticised what they described as a new requirement for applicants to demonstrate that their presence in the United States serves the "national interest" or provides an "economic benefit". They argued that no such test exists in statute and that the memorandum creates "a new substantive standard" without congressional authorisation. They also questioned the absence of an effective date, transition period or guidance on how pending applications would be handled. According to the letter, the policy could increase demand for immigrant visa processing at US consulates overseas and separate applicants from spouses, children and employers for extended periods because of existing visa appointment backlogs. It said the change could also affect skilled workers, entrepreneurs, researchers, medical professionals and businesses that rely on foreign talent. The lawmakers concluded that, "By directing adjudicators to treat adjustment of status as an 'extraordinary form of relief'.

Why foreign companies are hesitant to invest in China

New Delhi, July 7 : China's President Xi Jinping has repeatedly emphasised at high-level meetings with world leaders and corporate heads that his country is keen to attract foreign investments, even though recent events have brought into question the safety and viability of those potential investments, according to an article in The Diplomat.

It highlights that world's top business leaders that Jinping has addressed at meetings in recent months include Elon Musk of Tesla and SpaceX, Jensen Huang of Nvidia, Tim Cook of Apple, Larry Fink of BlackRock and Kelly Ortberg of Boeing. Jinping is reported to have told them that China "will only open its door wider" and that "China-U.S. economic and trade ties are mutually beneficial and win-win in nature." However, the article also points out that China has, over the past few years, issued new laws and decrees that impact the degree to which Chinese citizens are obligated to act as informants to the government. Effectively, these laws require ordinary people to act as eyes and ears of state security, reporting suspicious and seditious behaviour.
